MODERN GLADIOLUS GROWING

SIZE OF BULBS

Bulbs $\frac{3}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch in diameter are often a year younger and will produce spikes of flowers nearly as large as the large bulbs. We sell these medium sized bulbs at half the regular price in all varieties after which you find the mark $\frac{1}{2}$. By ordering this size you can have about twice as many flowers for the same expense.

PLANTING

Gladiolus will do well on any soil that will produce a good crop of corn or potatoes. A sandy loam is best and a heavy clay the poorest. I have had good success on heavy soil by covering the bulbs lightly with sand before leveling the ground. Care should be taken that no fresh manure come in contact with the bulbs. They can be planted any time in the spring when the soil is in good condition. Large bulbs may be planted as late as the first of July and most of them will bloom before frost. Large bulbs should be planted five inches deep and the smaller ones in proportion to the size up to two inches deep for the smaller sizes and bulblets. In heavy soil they should not be planted quite so deep. Many make the mistake of not planting them deep enough.

We make our rows thirty inches apart and leave one inch of space between the bulbs.

When planted where they cannot be cultivated with a horse, the rows should be fifteen inches apart. In good average garden soil 100 bulbs may be planted in a bed five feet square or a row twenty-five feet long.

CULTIVATING

Your success depends more on the cultivation you give your glads than on most anything else you can do. Do not wait until you can see the weeds. A common garden rake is perhaps the best cultivator for a small planting in the garden if it is used often enough to keep the soil loose and fine. You will be well repaid for the extra care you give your glads during the blooming season.

If you hill up the rows two or three inches when they are a foot or more high, it will help to hold the spikes in an upright position when in bloom.

Cultivation should be continued once a week until after the blooming season, and also as soon after each rain as the soil will permit. This destroys the weeds when the seeds are germinating and creates a dust mulch to conserve the moisture.

CUTTING

If the spike is cut when the first flower is fully open it will bloom in the vase for a week or longer if the weather is cool. Each morning the water should be changed, the withered blooms removed, and an inch or more cut from the base of the spike. They usually bloom better in the vase than in the hot sun and wind in the garden.

Cutting the spike off will not harm the new bulb for the next season if you are careful to not remove any more of the foliage than necessary. The more foliage you can leave the better your new bulb and bulblets will develop. The formation of seeds retards the growth of the bulb. The tops should be cut off above the foliage when they are done blooming in the garden. We growers who pride ourselves on growing high quality bulbs cut out many of the tops before blooming.

HARVESTING AND STORING

The bulbs are dug in the fall after the tops ripen or are killed by freezing. The tops are cut or broken off just above the bulb, and the bulbs are put two or three inches deep in crates to cure. A small quantity may be stored in a market basket and placed on a shelf or hung from a joist in the cellar.

The old shriveled bulb and roots can be easily pulled from the new bulb after they cure for a few weeks. This work can be done during the winter or at any time before planting. They must be kept dry and where they will not freeze. A temperature from 32 to 40 degrees is best.

WHOLESALE PRICES

If you buy bulbs in large quantities you are entitled to wholesale prices and should write to Brightside Gladiolus Gardens, R. 3, Albert Lea, Minn., and get wholesale list of about thirty of new and standard varieties that are grown on our farm there in large quantities.

We grow all varieties offered in this list here at Independence, Iowa, and frequently have a surplus of some but not enough of each to include in wholesale list.

We will gladly quote special prices on these to those who wish to plant 25 or more of each variety. When writing please state number and size of each variety wanted.

By referring to our list you will see that in many cases we have made the retail price almost as low as the wholesale price when you consider the cost of postage and packing.

We sell some varieties for less than half the price charged by some others. We can do this because we do not issue an expensive catalog and we grow our own bulbs. Our customers do not have to pay for fine pictures and expensive advertising.

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

We have added several new varieties to our list this season and have taken out some that were in our 1933 list, mostly because our stock of these varieties is too small to last through the season if we should leave them in the list. We have enough of most of them for those who wish to order them from last season's list.

The prices per dozen or each include prepayment of postage or express charges. At prices per hundred they are not sent prepaid.

It is usually cheaper to send a package weighing 10 pounds or more a long distance by express than by parcel post and you pay the charges when you receive the package.

It will be to your advantage to send us your order as soon as convenient after you receive this list because some of the new varieties are in limited quantities and they are liable to be sold out soon.

Bulbs will be sent in March or April when there is no danger of freezing in transit, unless you instruct us otherwise, in which case you assume the risk of freezing.

If you want something not in our list ask for it as we have many varieties in quantities too small to list. We may have what you want or to be able to get it for you.

If you find lower prices quoted in other catalogs you may remit to us at the lower price and mention the other catalog, and we will fill your order if we can.

DO YOU WISH US TO SUBSTITUTE

We do not substitute without permission. We sometimes get sold out of some varieties and it will save time and correspondence if you will kindly name a few that we may substitute as your second choice.

NAMED VARIETIES

$\frac{1}{2}$ signifies that bulbs 1 to $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches will be sold at half price, but no item for less than 5c.

We have selected as the best from nearly 200 varieties that we have had under test, the following varieties.
